Tragedy on highway in the Bronx

BRONX. A 20-year-old woman was killed and her younger brother badly injured in a car accident yesterday morning that police say was caused by icy roads. The siblings were driving on the Cross Bronx Expressway when their Chevy Venture minivan crashed just before 6 a.m., near Exit 5A. The brother and sister exited the car and were looking at the damage when they were struck by a Toyota Corolla, according to police. They were both ejected over the concrete highway barrier and fell 75 feet to the ground below. METRO/CB

OWS protesters demand brains

Dressed as "corporate zombies," dozens of protesters pranced around Zuccotti Park yesterday with open wounds and blood dripping down their faces as part of an early Halloween event. The first time protesters dressed as the undead 1 percent was Oct. 3.

Meet OWS resident knitter

NEW YORK. The weather has caused knitter Marsha Spencer, 56, to work overtime at Zuccotti Park. "The medical team has asked for fingerless mittens, so they can wear medical gloves underneath them while they work," she said. "People need to stay warm." Spencer, who's been at the protest since day one, has knit more than 40 items for the movement, including hats, scarves and gloves. METRO/EAE

Occupy Wall Street won't bow to weather

◗ Winter roars in, yet just one in five protesters hightail it out ◗ Reports of hypothermia, but Occupiers rely on hand warmers, wool and body heat

Mother Nature may have been brutal this weekend, but protesters claim she's no match for Occupy Wall Street. The majority of protesters have vowed to ride out the coming cold.

"As long as there's fire in people's bellies, they'll stay warm," said protester Evangelina Jimenez, 33, of Portland, Ore. Metro found Jimenez bundled up with two sweaters, three shirts, a jacket and two pairs of jeans to keep warm.

"The last couple of days were pretty rough," admitted Miami native Lily Casteanedo, 22. "But it's not going to stop us."

Not all protesters, however, share their conviction: A minority have fled Zuccotti Park for the winter, according to Jimenez. About one in five protesters packed up and left this weekend to avoid the snow and ice, reports claim.

Protester Michaela Weber, 18, has been camped out for three weeks, but says she doesn't know how much longer she can take it.

"Cotton can cause hypothermia and sores, which is happening a lot."
CELESTE HARMONY

"I'm from Florida and I'm already sick and have an ear infection," Weber said. "I don't know if I'll be able to stay through the winter."

Without generators, protesters are using metallic "space blankets," hand warmers and layers of clothing to shield them from the weather. Others use plain old body heat.

"I'm staying here with my girlfriend, so we use body heat to stay warm," said protester Nelson Cespedes, 18, of Washington Heights. "I almost went into hypothermic shock, but I'm going to stay as long as my body will allow it."

Camp policing explained

NEW YORK. After an unconfirmed report of a rape at Occupy Wall Street, Metro asked protesters what precautions are taken to protect women. "If someone needs help, simply shouting 'Security!' will draw attention," said protester Michaela Weber.

Pedal power skirts crackdown

NEW YORK. The FDNY confiscated fuel-powered generators from the OWS camp on Friday, saying they were a fire hazard. But one generator passed muster — one with wheels.

"We're powering batteries with the bike," said Brooklynite Keegan Stephan. "This is the one generator they can't take."

$5K The OWS general assembly voted to donate $5,000 to build the protester-powered bikes.

The batteries are used to power computers and small electronics, said Steven Ma, 27, a bike mechanic from Brooklyn. Each battery holds 100 volts of electricity, but four hours of biking yields only 25 volts, he said.

"We would need 10 people to power a hair dryer," said Ma. METRO/EAE

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

MTA gets spooked by Halloween vandalism threat

The threat of Halloween mischief means the MTA may shorten some bus routes today, and leave out certain stops altogether.

Portions of three bus routes may be skipped, according to MTA officials; those three routes are the Bx8 in Edgewater Park, the Bx24 in the Country Club section of the Bronx, and the B31 in Gerritsen Beach, Brooklyn, a bus that's often a target for chucked ice and snowballs during the winter months.

The MTA has shut down lines in those areas in years past to avoid vandalism, such as egg-throwing.

Attacks on city bus drivers are up 20 percent in 2011 compared to last year.

7 An average of seven bus drivers have been attacked every month so far this year.

The MTA will work with the NYPD today to determine what routes need to be curtailed.

The concerns come at a time when assaults on bus drivers are on the rise. Nearly 70 bus drivers were assaulted in the first nine months of this year, compared with 57 drivers in that same time period in 2010, according to the Daily News.

The City Council will convene a hearing this afternoon to address the increase in attacks.

Part of the hearing will assess the results of two pilot programs meant to keep drivers safe: The use of thick plastic partitions to separate drivers and riders, and on-board cameras.

Two cops charged with DUI

NEW YORK. Two NYPD officers were arrested in two separate incidents Friday and charged with drunk driving. Officer Ariel Rosa, 26, was busted in Bushwick after he allegedly collided with a parked car while driving on Moffat Street at about 4:30 a.m., say police. He was found to be intoxicated by officers who responded to the crash, and was arrested after being treated for minor injuries. A few hours later, in Queens, police officer Michael Botros, 29, was found asleep inside his car at 7:40 a.m. in South Ozone Park, with his keys still in the ignition, according to the New York Daily News. He was arrested for DUI. Both officers are suspended. ● METRO/CB

Trapped aboard plane for hours

Storm forces JetBlue flight bound for Newark to land in Connecticut ◗ Passengers stuck without food, water

Talk about plane infuriating.

The freak early snowstorm that hit the East Coast this weekend stranded more than 200 passengers aboard a Newark-bound JetBlue flight for seven hours on Saturday, without food, water or working bathrooms.

Flight 504 departed from Fort Lauderdale at 10 a.m., headed for Newark. However, the rapidly deteriorating weather made landing in New Jersey impossible, and the plane was rerouted north, where it landed at an airport near Hartford, Conn., at 1:30 p.m.

Passengers on board were told they would be able to disembark as soon as the plane landed, but instead they didn't get off the aircraft until after 9 p.m.

▶ A grounded nightmare

"The power would go off every 45 minutes or so for five minutes or so."
ANDREW CARTER, PASSENGER

"We ran out of water," passenger Andrew Carter told The Hartford Courant from aboard the plane.

"The bathrooms are all clogged up and disgusting," he said. "The power would go off every 45 minutes or so for five minutes or so, and that would freak people out."

Some passengers threatened to call the police.

Firefighters came aboard to help a paraplegic man who had circulation trouble in his legs, according to the Courant. After that, more firefighters arrived at 9 p.m. and helped people off the plane with a ladder.

JetBlue reportedly apologized for the incident, and promised refunds.

Hi! My name is Ginger and I'm a 2-year-old Lab mix.

I'm a very sweet girl, but I have a bit of a problem overcoming my fearfulness. It takes me some time to warm up to people I don't know, but once I do, I promise we'll be best friends.

New situations are scary for me, so I need an owner who will be patient with me during my transition to a new home. I'm pretty smart, and already know so many tricks, like "sit," "lay-down" and "paw." Walks are pretty fun, and I'll stick right by your side when we go out together.

True to my breed, I need a bit of running exercise every day. A loving and patient family is perfect.

Syria to the West: Beware our wrath

- Leader says US intervention will cause 'earthquake'
- Assad government has killed thousands of protesters

LOUAI BESHARA/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Thousands rally in Syria in support of al-Assad.

Western powers would cause an "earthquake" in the Middle East if they intervened in Syria, President Bashar al-Assad said in an interview published yesterday, after protesters demanded outside protection from a crackdown that has killed 3,000 people.

Syrian officials were to hold more talks in Qatar with delegates of the Arab League, which wants to convene a dialogue in Cairo between the Syrian authorities and their opponents.

The League's two-week deadline for the planned dialogue to start expired yesterday, with Assad showing no signs of easing the crackdown, which is drawing increasing international outrage and criticism even from previously cautious Arab countries.

Syria, as Assad noted in his interview with Britain's Sunday Telegraph, sits at the heart of the volatile Middle East, where it borders Israel, Lebanon, Turkey, Iraq and Jordan.

"It is the faultline, and if you play with the ground, you will cause an earthquake," he said. "Do you want to see another Afghanistan, or tens of Afghanistans?"

Assad's remarks signal determination to hang onto power against a popular uprising that repression has failed to crush. REUTERS

Can Romney step out of Cain's growing shadow?

JOHN GURZINSKI/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Herman Cain, foreground, has lately come to eclipse former Gov. Mitt Romney.

As race to unseat Obama heats up, front-runners find themselves neck and neck in major Iowa opinion poll

Republican White House hopefuls Herman Cain and Mitt Romney are in a tight race in Iowa, which kicks off next year's presidential nominating contests, according to a closely watched opinion poll published at the weekend.

The poll conducted for The Des Moines Register showed Cain, a conservative businessman, with the support of 23 percent of Republicans surveyed. Romney, a former Massachusetts governor, had 22 percent, and Texas Rep. Ron Paul 12 percent in the race to challenge Democratic President Barack Obama in the November 2012 election.

Historic value

In 2008, the Iowa Poll correctly predicted wins for former Arkansas Gov. Mike Huckabee in the Republican contest and Obama, then a senator, in the Democratic caucus.

Texas Gov. Rick Perry, who has stumbled in debates and on the campaign trail after a fast start, scored only 7 percent support.

The Iowa caucuses will take place on Jan. 3, the first of the state-by-state contests to choose a party presidential nominee.

The poll showed Minnesota Rep. Michele Bachmann fading after running neck and neck with Romney in the June Iowa poll. Bachmann dropped to 8 percent and fourth place in the new poll.

Neither Cain nor Romney has spent much time campaigning in Iowa. Romney, who has just four paid staff and a consultant in the state, has rarely visited Iowa since a second-place finish in the caucuses in 2008 wounded his campaign.

Iowa has a large bloc of conservative voters distrustful of Romney's past support of abortion rights and a Massachusetts health care overhaul that was a precursor of Obama's federal law. REUTERS

Americans among dead in bombing

A suicide car bomber on Saturday killed 13 troops and civilian employees of the NATO-led force in Kabul, including Americans and a Canadian, in the deadliest single ground attack against the coalition in 10 years of war in Afghanistan.

"Five International Security Assistance Force service members and eight ISAF civilian employees died following a suicide vehicle-born improvised explosive device attack in Kabul earlier today," ISAF said in a statement.

A Canadian military spokesman said one of the dead was a Canadian soldier. The Pentagon said earlier all 13 of the ISAF fatalities were American. But after the Canadian death was reported, a Pentagon spokesman said Americans were among the dead but that authorities were checking the identities of those killed.

Three other civilians and a police officer were also killed in the attack on a convoy of military vehicles, a spokesman for the Afghan Interior Ministry said. REUTERS

Taliban attack

The Taliban later claimed responsibility for the attack, saying it packed a four-wheel-drive vehicle with 1,500 pounds of explosives.

Midnight opening for Target on Black Friday

NEW YORK. If you were planning on camping overnight outside a Target store on Black Friday to get the best deals, you're out of luck.

The store will open up its doors earlier than ever before this year, at midnight to be exact, in an effort to bring in the Black Friday fanatics.

"The holidays bring hectic schedules and tight budgets, so extending store hours and offering lots of additional ways to save makes Target a great choice for affordable, one-stop holiday shopping," Tina Schiel, executive vice president of stores for Target, said in a press release.

The retailer also announced longer holiday hours: Black Friday will be a marathon for the company's staff, with stores open from midnight to 11 p.m. Christmas Eve hours will be 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. (or 8 p.m., depending on location). Stores will be open on Christmas Day from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. MAINSTREET.COM

MBA degree really adds up: Research

Forget that major in art history ◗ If you really want to find a job, smart money is betting on a business degree right now ◗ Hiring is up: Survey

While young Americans under the age of 30 are the hardest hit by unemployment, there is a glimmer of hope for one particular group of them: MBA graduates.

Recent research shows that the class of 2011 has much better employment prospects than the last two classes before it. According to a report by the Graduate Management Admission Council, more companies are now hiring, and more of them are recruiting on campus.

Data show that 57 percent of graduates who earned an MBA in 2011 reported getting job offers — a figure similar to the pre-recession rate. The survey polled 1,509 employers in 51 countries.

And only 4 percent of companies surveyed reported that they're not planning to hire this year. That's an improvement from 8 percent in 2010 and 13 percent in 2009.

According to the report, the proportion of companies with plans to hire new MBA graduates in 2011 has increased across all industries, most notably in the manufacturing, nonprofit/government, high technology, finance/accounting, and products and services sectors of the marketplace.

The demand is expected to be highest for people with MBAs in finance and accounting. Health care and pharmaceutical, consulting, and high technology industries are also in high demand.

"The post-recession recovery is gaining momentum as companies turn more toward growth," said the report.

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

– Dorothy Robinson will return on Thursday.

Pattinson a married man?

In honor of Halloween, let's check in with Vampire-in-Chief Robert Pattinson, shall we? (Tune in tomorrow for an update on Director of Zombie Special Projects Lindsay Lohan — we just couldn't handle her today.)

While promoting "Breaking Dawn: Part 1" at a press conference over the weekend, Pattinson speculated that he and co-star/girlfriend Kristen Stewart may already be married. "The wedding scene's funny because we used a real priest," said the actor, according to Us-Magazine.com. "So technically we are already married because he did all the things you would do in a normal ceremony. So we don't have a civil union in law, but I guess in the church we are actually married."

We suspect the church wouldn't agree, but then again, it's not really our go-to marriage dictionary these days. If someone united Heidi Montag and Spencer Pratt in holy-hell matrimony, no doubt they'd sign off on this one.

Halloween weekend with Drew

Cops were called to Drew Barrymore's place in Hollywood Hills over the weekend because her Halloween party got too loud, according to TMZ's sources. Absolutely nothing of note — they showed up around midnight and she promised to quiet down. It might, however, be the only time she surfaces in gossip columns until 2013, and we wanted to put it out there: We love Drew Barrymore, and want in on her rowdy Halloween parties.

Barrymore

Cops called to Nicki's

In less adorable calling-the-cops news, police were summoned to Nicki Minaj's place this weekend when the singer got in an argument with a housekeeper, according to TMZ. Minaj had previously fired a maid who worked at her home, then grew upset when the woman returned to work Friday. When the maid said she wouldn't be "treated like an animal," Minaj reportedly flipped out, shouting, "I'll show you how to treat someone like an animal. Get the f— out of my house."

Best part here? It wasn't the same employee she had fired. This, Nicki, is exactly what the term "epic fail" was invented for.

Talking points

Time off for Timberlake

Justin Timberlake might be avoiding the spotlight for a little while, he warns. "I've spent a lot of time feeling like I needed to validate so much of who I was by what I did," he tells Esquire magazine. "I think you can work and work and never really live." So what is Timberlake planning to do instead? "The plan is to have no plan," he says. "I'll probably travel, but I'd rather be spontaneous. I feel like I've earned at least a little bit of time to do that."

Sandy's nursery steps up

The bar has been raised when it comes to shopping for Sandra Bullock's infant son, Louis, after the actress's agents picked up a $14,000 Andy Warhol painting at a charity auction and gave it as a gift to the young boy, according to Hollyscoop. "I want to thank Kevin Huvane and Bryan Lourd for not being cheap f—s and gifting my son with his first Warhol," Bullock joked at the event.

Bullock

Halloween gets tricky for Usher

Usher ran afoul of a fellow citizen after parking in a handicap space in Atlanta recently, according to TMZ. His black SUV was stopped outside a Halloween costume shop when an unidentified woman started screaming at him. After being ignored for too long, the woman turned violent, lunging at the singer and his companions.

Kelly Clarkson still looking

Kelly Clarkson wants to clarify that she is not a lesbian. "I'm from a small town, so everyone's married with children or about to have children," she says during a visit to "The View." "That's why people think I'm gay — because they're like, 'Why aren't you married?' And I'm like, 'It doesn't happen for everyone right off the bat!'"

Freaking out the trick-or-treaters

If you live in the type of 'hood where trick-or-treaters come to your door, you'll likely want to take precautions not to end up on the wrong end of a trick. In addition to giving great candy, we suggest supplying some audio treats that are a bit more obscure than "Thriller." PAT HEALY

VISIT US AT WWW.METRO.US/MIXTAPE TO HEAR THESE SPOOKY SONGS AND MORE

"House of Mirrors"
David McCallum
You may recognize this off-kilter instrumental thanks to DJ Shadow sampling it on his track "Dark Days." But the 1967 original, with its introductory groans and building organ, lends to a feeling that you're running from a terrible monster.

"Cherub"
Butthole Surfers
This song from these Texas weirdos has a quality that almost makes it seem like a glimpse into the haunted thoughts of a psychopath. Gibby Haynes laughs maniacally against nauseous guitars and screams things like, "I see bodies!"

"I Walked with a Zombie" Roky Erickson
A lot of Halloween music is just downright silly — "I Was a Teenage Werewolf," "Monster Mash," etc. Though this title sounds like it could fall into that trap, it escapes that fate, mostly because Erickson actually comes across like he believes that he did, in fact, walk with a zombie.

"Me and the Devil Blues" Robert Johnson
Another narrator who sounds like he believes his otherworldly subject matter, this track is violent, morose, and proves that delta blues is way scarier than metal. Johnson is one of those artists, like Glenn Danzig, where if you play anything by him, it can terrify any visitor.

The Continuum of Breast Cancer Risk, Treatment and Survivorship in Women Under 40

Presented by NYU Cancer Institute, an NCI-designated Cancer Center

In this program (supported by the Barbara Hope Foundation, Inc.), our experts will discuss risk assessment, screening and therapeutic considerations for women under 40 who have or are at risk for breast cancer. The best protocol for treating these young women has not yet been established, but the approach to systemic therapy is continuously evolving. Younger women with cancer also face particular issues and concerns about fertility preservation and long-term treatment effects. The unique hardships young breast cancer survivors may go through as a result of their treatment will be discussed as well.

This program is open to the general public although the material presented is intended for healthcare professionals. This activity has been approved for 4.75 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™ for physicians.

▶ What a nice looking pair: Justin Timberlake and Amanda Seyfried star in sci-fi thriller "In Time."

Tick, tick, boom!

◗ Budding actor Justin Timberlake blows up in the new sci-fi thriller 'In Time' ◗ Why this ex-teen pop star says he's happy to be getting older

Playing the hero in "In Time" — a sci-fi adventure set in a world where people stop aging at 25 and have to earn time to stay alive — has given Justin Timberlake a lot of chances to think about time, including being stuck with a certain look. "I look back as a lot of my younger years have been documented and I can honestly say that I would not like to revisit," says the musician-turned-actor. "So I'm perfectly fine with aging."

Of course he says that now, at age 30 — and playing a convincing 25 on screen. Maybe he'll change his tune after another 10 or 20 years. But for now, movies like "In Time" are helping keep him young, especially considering all the action involved. "I got to live out a lot of boyhood fantasies in this movie — shooting guns and getting to learn how to stunt drive," he says, grinning.

Given the time-sensitive nature of the film, there was, of course, lots of running involved — which was fine for Timberlake, but not so much his co-star, Amanda Seyfried, who did most of the chases in high heels. It was a necessity for the plot as well as for practical reasons, though, Timberlake jokes. "We debated actually in the middle of a scene her taking the heels off and just running without them, but she would have gotten lost in the frame," he says, teasing his diminutive leading lady.

One pitfall of high-concept action thrillers is that they can be overly expositional, and that was something Timberlake was keen to watch out for, consulting Andrew Niccol, the film's writer, director and producer, about paring down the script. "I felt like we would take lines out because it's always nicer when you can play out a scene and it can read without dialogue," Timberlake says. Saves more time for the shooting and driving, at least.

NED EHRBAR
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

The Occupy Wall Street connection

A major theme of "In Time" is taking on an elite that controls all the resources in society — something that finds resonance with the current Occupy Wall Street movement as the film hit theaters. Of course it was all planned this way, jokes Amanda Seyfried, claiming that Niccol "actually said when we were shooting the movie, 'They're going to occupy Wall Street like, the next year when this comes out. I think this is a great time to make it.'"

What to expect from 'Rock Center with Brian Williams'

The 'Nightly News' anchor's newsmagazine show tweaks the format ● Premieres tonight at 10 on NBC

▶ It's a new kind of newsmagazine

Unlike other newsmagazine programs like "60 Minutes," "Rock Center" will be telecast live, from Studio 3B in Rockefeller Center, every week.

"It has the opportunity to be more timely and more relevant and more responsive to what's in the news, what's in the national conversation, than an hourlong documentary-style show," says David Corvo, senior executive producer of "Rock Center." "You'll see a different kind of magazine that will be fronted by one person with a curious and intense relationship with the news and the trust of his audience."

▶ It's definitely Brian Williams' showcase

"Brian is the managing editor of this program," says Rome Hartman, "Rock Center" executive producer, "and it will reflect his sensibility. I've said this ought to feel like Brian's playlist."

As curator of the news series, Williams will not be reporting every story. But the "Nightly News" anchor ensures every report is in good hands. "These are friends and coworkers of mine," he says of the show's correspondents, "and at the conclusion of the story they tell, we're going to probably sit around and talk about it. There will be questions that will kind of pop into all of our heads as we watch these pieces."

Correspondents signed on to the series include Harry Smith, Kate Snow, Ted Koppel, Meredith Vieira, Natalie Morales, Matt Lauer, Ann Curry, Richard Engel and Dr. Nancy Snyderman. "It's been very exciting around here," says Williams. "We're hiring people to put journalism on television. And you don't get to start something like this more than once or twice in your lifetime." In addition to that all-star roster, Williams says "there are still some people on the whiteboard in my head who I think could really, really turn some heads" if they were to join the program.

"Regis is not going to retire," pipes in Joy, who was with Regis to promote Pfizer's True Advil Stories campaign. "He's just moving on to do something else because a live show every day is quite a commitment. This will give us the chance to do a little traveling — all of our family are still in Los Angeles but we always have to be back Sunday night. This'll be a big change for us."

It is indeed a big change for Joy and her 80-year-old husband, who holds the Guinness World Record for the most hours on television — 16,540 and a half!

"I know it's impeding," Regis says of his final episode. "So many people are coming up to me, and it's touching. In a way I can say that I am not looking forward to it, but in another way it has to happen."

MORE WITH
REGIS AND JOY

The decision to end his run, Regis says, came after "talking about it with Joy over the years." And when it was time to make the announcement, which he did on-air in January, he was careful to inform his co-workers — even co-host Kelly Ripa — only a half-hour before taping started, so that the news wouldn't leak and rumors wouldn't start.

As for the final show, "Regis is in for a lot of surprises," according to Joy. "I don't know specifically, but I know they have requested tapes, so this is going to go back a long time."

"I am sure ['Live!'s executive producer Michael] Gelman is going to build it into an extravaganza," Regis adds.

"After 2 weeks, my blood sugar went from 180 to 112 and stayed there!"

Heart Surgeon Hails "Antioxidant" Diabetic Drink as 'A Miracle'!

Naturally improves blood sugar, cholesterol, circulation, energy and more in as little as 2 weeks!

What part of your diabetes would you like to see 'go away?' Are you plagued by weight gain and food cravings, high and low blood sugar levels, mood swings, low energy and constant fatigue, poor circulation, vision problems, pain or aggravating bouts of brain fog or memory lapses?

There is good news and it comes in the form of a 'fizzy', drink called OPC Factor™, which quickly revitalizes your entire body and mind!

Better Blood Sugar

The 'miracle' is found in the powerful blend of antioxidants called oligomeric proanthocyanadins, better known as OPCs. They include resveratrol, grape seed, pine bark, lemon bioflavonoids, green tea, and 23 naturally occurring vitamins and enzymes.

Medical Director and Heart surgeon of the Heart, Diabetes, and Weight Loss Centers of NY, Dr. Fred Vagnini, MD, FACS says, "Antioxidants may slow down the progress of pre-Diabetes."

OPC Factor™ greatly improves total body circulation promoting faster blood flow; crucial for diabetics," says Vagnini.

"OPC Factor™ has helped lower my glucose levels. I sleep better and have more energy and better circulation," says Charles Leavitt.

"Excess sugar in your blood causes oxidation and inflammation which contribute to slow sticky blood. Additionally, cellular damage leads to eye, kidney, nerve, and blood vessel damage.

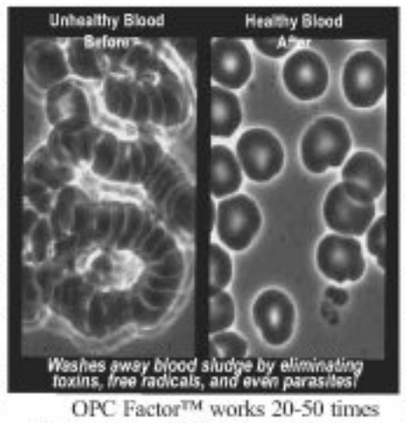
No More Horse Pills!

"Pills and tablets have an absorption rate as low as 2 to 20 percent," says Dr. Vagnini.

OPC Factor™ is the first 100% organic formula fueled by a revolutionary,high-speed Isotonic 'liquid' delivery system. It mimics the body's pH; having the same pH levels as blood and tears, the nutrients readily absorb at amazing 97% rate!

Results in Minutes!

Actual blood scans taken twenty minutes apart show how the OPC Factor™ formula virtually flushes away free radicals, excess cholesterol crystals and sugar molecules in the bloodstream.



Washes away blood sludge by eliminating toxins, free radicals, and even parasites!

OPC Factor™ works 20-50 times better than traditional antioxidants against dangerous oxidation; helping insulin to work more effectively.

"My doctor said, "I don't know what you're doing, but keep doing it." says Teresa Wood, from WA.

"I started taking OPC Factor and approximately a week after, I went back and had my blood checked. My blood sugar had dropped from about a 180 down to a 112. I had been having back problems and it seemed to resolve that. The thing that I've noticed the most is the lack of back pain. I've just felt good this past year." rejoices Doyle Allen, ID.

National Institute Of Health Study Proves It!

"I can feel it when I drink it. It gives a lot of energy."says Ken Murdock.

A recent National Institute of Health funded "Double Blind" clinical study published in July, supports customer claims about energy.

David Payne, a diabetic from Texas, echoes this, "Since taking OPC Factor™, my blood sugar is easier to manage. It boosted my immune system and even helped my cholesterol."

Receive One-Month Free!

Try OPC Factor™ risk-free today and receive a free 30-Day Bonus supply along with a free book, The Aging Antidote. OPC antioxidants are clinically proven to boost your energy, and help restore youthful circulation, cholesterol and blood sugar levels. In co-workers we trust?

- We certainly should — it's good for business and for morale
- Quick tips for communicating better and earning trust at work

STOCKBYTE

▶ How do you get back to this point? "Acknowledge what happened, allow those feelings to surface, and moving forward discuss what measures can be put in place so the breach of trust doesn't happen again," says Reina.

Sometimes, there is a definitive, neatly wrapped culprit for why a workplace is unhappy or unproductive — or, more often, both. But often, says consultant and author Dennis Reina, problems can be traced back to a more elusive source: lack of trust.

"Trust is not just a nice thing to have — it's sound business. When people are not communicating openly with each other, when they're missing deadlines or withholding information and not admitting mistakes, clients don't get served," says Reina, who along with his wife and business partner Michelle Reina authored "Rebuilding Trust in the Workplace" and "Trust and Betrayal in the Workplace." "Trust is one of those things that's often taken for granted, until it becomes a problem."

And when it does become a problem, a lack of trust can ruin a job or even a business. "When these issues aren't addressed, it becomes simply, 'that's the way it is around here,'" says Reina. "The good talent walks out the door, or worse yet they stay, and then they become the working wounded."

Before you become a skeptical zombie among the untrustworthy hordes, here's what Reina recommends:

Acknowledge the effort of your co-workers or employees: "We spend most of our waking hours at work, and because of this, people want to know that it makes a difference to someone, somehow, somewhere. Specifically acknowledging a specific performance really speaks volumes."

Admit when you make a mistake: "When you admit your mistakes it shows that you're human and vulnerable, and it gives your employees or co-workers permission to admit theirs. You don't want to be blindsided and hear about mistakes from your clients and customers. It's important that it's safe to admit mistakes."

Arrive on time and hit deadlines: "The same people are consistently late. And what's the message? That you view yourself more important than the rest of the room. It sends a message that there's a lack of respect, or that you don't have it together enough."

3 Taboo topics to avoid in the workplace

Most of us know never to discuss politics and religion at work, but there are other topics that are equally as taboo. These subjects are off-limits around the boss, and even around the watercooler.

Relationship status
A recent survey conducted by Adecco polled more than 800 Americans and revealed that 23 percent find relationship status to be the most taboo topic in the office. According to the survey, relationship status is even more uncomfortable to talk about than politics (chosen as most taboo by 16 percent surveyed) and religion (which was No. 1 for 10 percent of those polled). The takeaway: Save talk about breakups and make-ups for your friends and family.

Physical appearance
"Unless you work in a Hollister, your physical appearance probably doesn't have a huge role in your performance at work," says Anthony Morrison, vice president of career networking service Cachinko. "Talking about things like weight, clothing and looks can be hurtful to company morale."

Of course it's also wise to avoid talking about how attractive you find a co-worker.

Socioeconomic status
Ben Dattner is the author of "The Blame Game," a book that explores the psychology of pointing the finger at work. Dattner finds that discussing your lavish lifestyle in the office can cause a rift between employees. "If you let co-workers know that you are spending the holidays at your family's 55,000-square-foot ski chalet in Aspen, or even that you own your home while they rent theirs, they will likely have a hard time relating to you and may even resent you," says Dattner.

The best campuses for Halloween

J. ADAM FESTER

▶ The Rush Rhees Library at the University of Rochester gets transformed every Halloween.

Tired of the same old sketchy frat costume party at your school? Here's inspiration for next year from college celebrations around the country

Zombie walk at Bucknell University
This Halloween, residents of Lewisburg, Pa., will be confronted with hordes of zombies stumbling down Market Street, with police protection! Courtesy of Bucknell's Interfraternity Council, the zombies will gather on campus, then moan their way through town to a screening of the 1968 classic, "Night of the Living Dead."

Zombie drills at Ohio Wesleyan University
Partnering with their local Office of Homeland Security, OWU is making a hazardous materials spill demo a little more interesting by simulating a zombie apocalypse. Today, authorities are hoping up to 350 locals will dress and act like zombies in order to practice emergency procedures. "If people are prepared for a zombie apocalypse, they will be prepared for more likely disasters such as floods or blizzards," reasoned the Delaware County Emergency Management Agency in a statement.

Must-see

University of Rochester's Scare Fair: Over the last 80 years, the Rush Rhees Library has inspired many a campus ghost story, with its dark, imposing stacks of literature hidden in endless passageways. Each year UR librarians transform it into a haunt for only the tweediest of book lovers. This year's theme: "The Haunted Forest."

Case Western Reserve University's pumpkin toss
In what has become an annual tradition, CWRU's physics department honors Galileo by dropping pumpkins of varying weights from the top of the physics building and howling with glee as they splat below. Onlookers enjoy cider and pumpkin pie.

Is cheating a problem in online classes?

- When the classroom is the living room, it's tempting to phone a friend or crack a textbook come quiz time
- What two professors recommend to keep it honest

ABLESTOCK.COM

▶ Honor code or no honor code, it's tempting to cheat when no one is looking.

There are no suspicious glances from the student at the next desk over, and no looming walk-bys from the class professor: In an online course, it's just you and your computer. And according to one recent study, that can open the door for cheating.

Frank M. LoSchiavo and Mark A. Shatz, both psychology professors at Ohio University's Zanesville campus, took an in-depth look at whether students are more likely to cheat in online courses. In the first part of the study, about 40 students who completed 14 online quizzes during the course of the class were surveyed. At the end of the course, 72.5 percent of students reported cheating at some point by consulting their textbook, notes, friends, family or the Internet.

Another element of the study focused on students who were asked to sign an online honor code that made it clear that any form of cheating was a violation of university policy. Researchers found that still didn't make much of a difference when it came to cheating — 61.5 percent of students who signed the code still admitted to cheating.

Would it make a difference if students had to physically sign an honor code rather than doing it online? That could do it. Students who signed the code the old-fashioned way were about 30 percent less likely to cheat. Still, though, plenty of students did: 57.6 percent of those who signed the honor code cheated and so did 81.8 percent of those who did not sign it.

CASSANDRA GARRISON

What they recommend

▶ The authors of the study suggest that students are less likely to cheat when they have some sort of personal interaction with professors or classmates. When a class is solely conducted online, students who are "socially disconnected" can more easily justify cheating. They suggest professors ask students to take proctored exams, even if the rest of the class is online.

We must vote the greedy out

I think the Occupy Wall Street group has spelled out what most of the middle class deems credible: Big business and the banks have played "gotcha" with us for too long and we're just plain fed up with being nickel and dimed to death. The government bails them out yet they find huge sums of money to pay retirees and bonuses as we try to "play by the rules" while financiers and big business continue to rake it all in on the backs of middle-class workers.

HERBERT W. STARK, MASSAPEQUA

Speaking of greedy bums

Where I live the OWS movement asked for free electricity after someone donated a TV so they could watch the Phillies during the playoffs. This week they are begging for shovels, tents, sleeping bags and food, etc. They are freeloaders who have not been weaned from their mommies and now want someone else to take care of them.

PATRICK LAVELLE, VIA E-MAIL

A colleague of mine walked past these bums at 10:30 Friday morning and as usual they were all asleep from the prior night's freeloading and partying. It's no wonder these lazy bums don't have jobs or a solid work ethic.

MARK V. CARRIERI, VIA E-MAIL

OWS seems to be cleansed of guilt every time their spokesperson releases a statement saying they don't condone violence, drug use, etc — despite the fact that they have vandalized, threatened, stole, abused drugs and been a general public menace. I'm just waiting for these juveniles to pack up and go home after the people they exploit for donations grow tired of supporting these hypocritical bums.

TINA XUE, VIA E-MAIL

The "99%ers" will ultimately fail with whatever they are against. They would be better off if they would just take the money being pumped into their "leadership" by the far left, unions and the "administration," buy some reefer and [expletive deleted].

JOHN BOVINSKI, VIA E-MAIL

War budget is a real killer

RE: GOP WANTS TO CUT $2T": Cutting over $1 trillion should not be done to programs that help the sickest, oldest and youngest in our country. Instead, cut the largest section of discretionary spending, the Pentagon budget — which is about 50 percent of every income tax dollar!

Horoscope

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Inviting someone to an informal gathering with friends may not be as thoughtful as you intended. If this person doesn't fit in, it could spoil the fun.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Make sure you can keep all your commitments, because someone to whom you make a promise will take you at your word and plan his or her entire day around what you say.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. If you have to deal with an assignment that you do not fully understand, don't pretend you can handle it. Don't let your pride inhibit you from requesting the help you sorely need.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Put off taking any financial gambles — the odds simply aren't in your favor for the moment. And don't let anyone else make a commitment for you.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. All the wishing in the world won't make things happen the way you want them to, so if it's possible, put off all important events until another day.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Before you rely on any gossip, check out everything yourself. Regardless of how long it takes to verify something, it's vital that you don't take at face value what is being said.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. If your resources aren't being prudently managed, there is a chance you could respond in a way that could be costly at a later date. Take time to figure things out.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Even if you know what changes need to be implemented concerning your family, you could let haste push you into making a major gaffe. Slow down and think carefully.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You should take care not to allow your emotions to influence your judgment. The way things are in the real world and the way you perceive them could be galaxies apart.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Although, many times, business can mix very comfortably with social arrangements, this will not be so at present. Do all that you can to keep the two separated. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Giants look listless, uninspired against hapless Dolphins ◗ Pull out victory in fourth quarter nonetheless ◗ Cruz comes up big down the stretch

GIANTS 20 | DOLPHINS 17 Up next: at Patriots Nov. 13: at 49ers

▶ Victor Cruz jumps over former Giant Will Allen (25) on his way to scoring the game-winning touchdown.

PATRICK MCDERMOTT/GETTY IMAGES

The Giants entered Sunday's game coming off a bye, but from the start it looked as if they were still on vacation.

Judging by their tight 20-17 win, it appeared that the Giants (5-2) were almost bored in facing a Dolphins (0-7) team starving for its first win.

It wasn't until the 5:58 mark of the fourth quarter that the Giants took their first lead of the game when Eli Manning found Victor Cruz for a 25-yard touchdown reception on third-and-13. The young wideout broke a tackle and raced to the end zone, capping a six-play, 53-yard drive with his patented end zone salsa dance.

"I'm happy for the win. Our objective was to come out of here 5-2 and we are," Coughlin said. "Eli made some big plays, obviously, as we threw the ball a lot today. He gave us big plays when we had to have them."

Manning becoming 'elite' QB

▶ Manning has thrown for 300 yards three times this year.

GETTY IMAGES

Maybe Eli Manning was right to compare himself to Tom Brady after all.

Manning was near flawless for the second-straight week as he went 31-of-45 for 349 yards and two touchdowns in rallying the Giants from an 11-point first-half deficit. It was the second game in a row in which the hot-and-cold Manning didn't commit a turnover. It was also Manning's highest passing total in a win this season.

"He told you all ... that he was elite. I feel like he's proving that right now."

JUSTIN TUCK, ON ELI MANNING COMPARING HIMSELF TO TOM BRADY

"When we prepare I don't look at the opposing team's record. I look at their scheme, what they do and what other teams have done against them," Manning said, adding he doesn't mind when the game plan falls on his shoulders. "They [Dolphins] did a lot of good things defensively that gave us some problems. We didn't run the ball real well and had to throw it a little bit more than we wanted to but we're capable of doing that."

Head coach Tom Coughlin said he'd rather have offensive balance, but will take the win. He added he'll look at the game as glass half-filled because a win is a win in this parity-driven league. TONY WILLIAMS

Rangers look for identity

The last thing a team struggling to find its identity needs is a nationally televised match against one of the NHL's pre-eminent teams.

That is exactly what beckons for the 3-3-3 Rangers, when they welcome the Sharks to the new MSG tonight. San Jose has won the first five games of its six-game road trip, including a 3-2 come-from-behind overtime win on the Island on Saturday night. The Sharks have allowed the third-fewest goals in the league.

On TV tonight

Rangers vs. Sharks
7 p.m., VS.

"They're playing at home. From what I understand, they lost [Saturday afternoon]," Sharks coach Todd McLellan said of the Rangers after the win at the Nassau Coliseum Saturday night. "I don't think they'll be a happy group.

"We're going to have to work against that team."

For a group that prided itself on its collective work ethic last year, the Rangers' have not yet played a complete game in 2011-12.

Sustained forechecking has been replaced by a team attempting to play a skill game that it is ill-suited for.

Factor in a 38-35-11 mark at the Garden in the last 84 regular season games and you have a formula that leads to disappointment. Or as one fan disgustedly bellowed during the third period of Thursday night's home opener, "Go back on the road." DENIS GORMAN

1 Ravens 30, Cardinals 27: Ray Rice scored three touchdowns in the second half to rally from 24-3 down.

2 Rams 31, Saints 21: Steven Jackson had 159 yards and two scores in the most surprising result of the day.

3 Bills 23, Redskins 0: Buffalo got back on track behind two touchdowns passes from Ryan Fitzpatrick.
